AFPCN was created in 2001 to continue the work of the French Committee of the International Decade for the Prevention of Natural Disasters. It links disaster prevention actors from research, politics and civil society.

DKKV is the national platform for disaster prevention in Germany and the intermediary to international organisations and initiatives active in the field of disaster prevention. Further it functions as a competence centre for all questions of national and international disaster risk management.

DCNA is Austria's knowledge network for disaster risk reduction and integrates existing scientific multi-disciplinary activities. It co-develops innovative solutions for current needs across the disaster risk management cycle. DCNA supports the translation and transfer of complex scientific data and provides evidence-based advice to decision makers of the public and private sector.
